Area business owner charged with felony

Venice man already facing misdemeanor

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Venice business owner Lennal Johnson Jr. was charged with a felony after a second incident in less than a week in which he allegedly beat one of his employees. Johnson, 32, of the 1300 block of Oriole, Venice, was charged Monday with one count of felony unlawful restraint.

As of Wednesday, Venice police were making arrangements to have Johnson arrested. Bond was set at $50,000.

Last Wednesday, Johnson was charged with misdemeanor battery after allegedly striking another employee at his business, A Rare Touch, located at 609 Broadway.

Citing threats Johnson allegedly made to the victim, a 19-year-old St. Louis woman, the judge also imposed a restraining order on Johnson, ordering him not to harass or intimidate the victim and to stay at least 1,500 feet away from her.

According to reports, police met the woman in the 300 block of Broadway at about 1:30 a.m.

The victim said she worked for Johnson at the business and that he had paged her repeatedly. When she went to the business, she said he hit her as she walked in the door.

He then allegedly beat her for 10 minutes, then forced her to take off her clothes. During the incident, she said he threatened to kill her several times and also to "blow up" her aunt's house. She was eventually able to get away and contacted police.

Last Wednesday, Johnson was charged after allegedly beating another employee,

Minimum fines set

Toll-runners face
$100 penalty

By Scott Cousins

The minimum fine for toll-runners at the McKinley Bridge has been doubled by the Venice City Council.

At Tuesday's meeting, City Council members passed an ordinance setting the minimum fine at $100. The fine maximum is $750.

Council had requested an ordinance making the change at the last meeting. Officials estimate that toll-running costs the city more than $100,000 in sorely needed bridge revenues each year.

Council was also informed that bridge officials are installing counters to more accurately gauge the number of people using

MacTaggart resigns

Comptroller quits after domestic incident

By Michael Heil
Staff writer

Kim P. "Mac" MacTaggart resigned his position as city comptroller Tuesday because of an incident that occurred last week in which he allegedly struck his estranged wife, 7th Ward Alderman Kim P. MacTaggart, during a dispute.

Aldermen accepted Mac MacTaggart's resignation at Tuesday night's Granite City Council meeting, with a lone abstention coming from Kim P. MacTaggart. Mac MacTaggart, who was charged with domestic battery in regard to the incident, will now become assistant comptroller, a position he was appointed to in 1998 by former Mayor Van Dee Cruse. The demotion will result in a slight pay cut of his $80,000 salary, but will not affect Mac MacTaggart's benefits or seniority.

Mayor Ron Selph said Mac MacTaggart was not forced or pressured to resign, but did so on his own cognizance.

"This was his request," Selph said. "He wasn't pressured into it."

Kim P. MacTaggart, teary-eyed as she walked from the council chamber, would only blurt, "too emotional."

Third Ward Alderman Nick Petrillo said he thought the situation was "remedied in the right way."

Sixth Ward Alderman Mac Warfield was in agreement with Petrillo, saying "It was a good deal and saved us (the city) a lot of problems."

According to a police report, Kim P. MacTaggart, 40, was struck on the right side of her head by her husband at her home in the 1600 block of Garfield Avenue. Kim P. MacTaggart said Friday that her husband was inebriated when he punched her in the face, causing her right eye to swell. She also said she had to have an eye examination because she was having problems seeing out of the eye.

Mac MacTaggart was arrested about 2 a.m. Nov. 7 at his home in the 100 block

Dog owner forced to obtain insurance policy

Resident has until Friday to comply with officials

By Michael Heil
Staff writer

The owner of a dog that the city has deemed vicious has until Friday morning to obtain a $50,000 life insurance policy for a vicious animal.

If the owner, Brenda Taylor, does not obtain the policy by then, the city has the authority to take the animal Friday. Taylor has adamantly said that despite what the public and city officials think, her dog, Sarge, is not vicious and will not attack humans.

Sarge, a 100-pound mixed pit bull, fled Taylor's home in the 2900 block of Edgewood about four weeks ago, strayed into a yard in

Welfare fix needs help

By Chris Wills

It's hard to imagine what would be more frustrating to a mother waiting anxiously for an overdue child-support check: that her check is late because of government "efficiency" efforts or that the government could have foreseen the problems.

Both are true in the case of Illinois' woeful efforts to change the way it delivers support checks.

The change was required by the federal government in hopes of making it easier to locate parents who move from state to state, skipping out on their child-support obligations.

Congress ordered each state to create a central processing office to take over work that had been done by the circuit clerk in each county. Checks mailed directly from one parent to another would not be affected, but this central office would handle all checks to parents on welfare or deducted by a court order from someone's salary.

Illinois, the bureaucrats say, had no choice but to adopt this "improvement" or lose federal welfare money. And so, on Oct. 1, Illinois' new State Disbursement Unit began receiving child-support money.

Getting that money out to the children proved more complicated, however. Tens of thousands of checks have been delayed, many by weeks.

People such as Colleen Richardson and her 8-year-old son, Drew, are the ones who have suffered.

Checks to help pay the cost of raising Drew used to reach her in four days. Lately they've been taking two weeks or more and Richardson was forced to turn to her family for help.

"Right now, they help pay part of our bills. If it wasn't for them, I couldn't make ends meet," she said earlier this month.

"They are very supportive and very helpful. They just don't want to see us end up being homeless. But on the other hand, my son is not their responsibility. He is my husband's."

The state Public Aid Department has struggled to work its way through the backlog while simultaneously teaching businesses and circuit clerks how the new system is supposed to work.

But the department could have known such problems were possible and planned accordingly.

Illinois was not the first state to open a central processing office or a related statewide computer network, and several of the other states have seen similar trouble.

Nevada has seen the price of its computer system balloon from $22.5 million to more than $100 million, in the process delaying thousands of support checks.

Hawaii has such problems with its computer system that angry parents filed a class-action lawsuit seeking interest on the late payments.

Others, from Alaska to North Dakota, have had related problems and several states are encountering them now.

True, delays caused by a faculty computer system are not exactly the same as Illinois' troubles with a centralized processing office.

But the result is the same: late checks. Those other states offered multiple examples of the need for careful preparation and back-up planning. They showed how people's lives could be thrown into chaos by a few well-intentioned decisions made hundreds of miles away.

Yet circuit clerks describe helter-skelter preparations in Illinois: murky directions, computer systems being installed and then replaced, requests for information that already had been provided.

A few other states, meanwhile, centralized their child-support programs years ago and might have some advice on how to reduce problems.

A spokeswoman for the Illinois Public Aid Department said she knew of no research into other states' experience with centralizing child-support computers and processing.

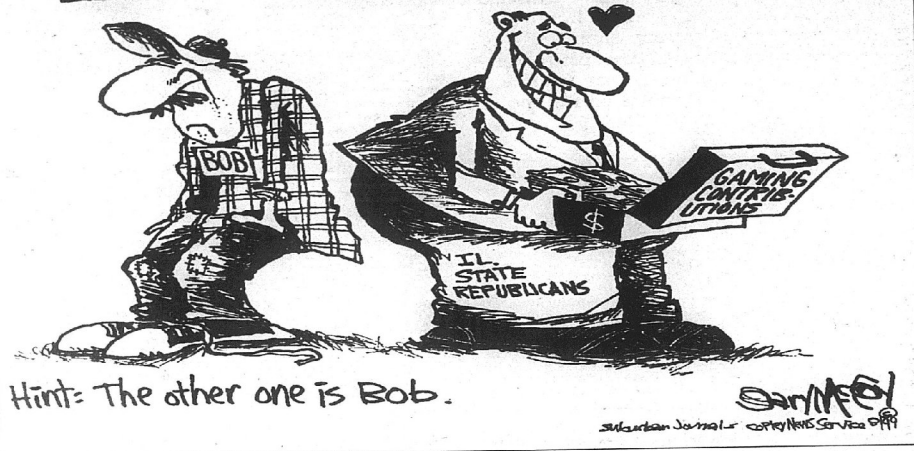

Now the department finds itself making emergency payments to cover checks it hasn't delivered, with the total $7 million and climbing. And trying to make sense of the 20 percent of checks that come in without proper information. And training circuit clerks on the new system while the system is in turmoil.

Now thousands of Illinois families are encountering both at once.

IDOT brings overkill

TO THE EDITOR:
I looked up the word "overkill" in the dictionary and it said, "SEE IDOT." To give you a specific example, they recently added turn lanes on the Belt Line by the Architectural Associates building near Illinois 127 in Collinsville. To those of you who are familiar with this area, I don't dispute that we needed something done there. A lot of accidents occurred on that bend because people couldn't see who was turning just around the corner. My shock came when I discovered to what great lengths IDOT went to when they decided to add these turn lanes.

I called IDOT and if you've never done this before, it's a nightmare. It's a classic case of the left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing. Eventually, I stumbled upon the engineer who is currently overseeing the project. (There's a second engineer on-site.) I spoke with Ted Nimsky who, I must say, quietly listened while I complained (very loudly) about all of the trees they took out to add turn lane. Even he remarked after having called up the drawings, "That is a lot of trees." Specifics on this project included: One acre of area disturbed (that's IDOT's word; I'd use one like "destroyed") as well as 500 inches (in diameter) of trees removed.

Overall, my main complaint is that IDOT did not (and usually does not) take into consideration the local landscaping. Surrounding that bend, we have two apartment complexes which have taken great care in preserving the trees and also the Architectural Associates building which is absolutely beautiful; and it, too, is surrounded by trees. So, in comes IDOT to do their overkill. I should let you know that employees of IDOT are famous for letting people know they do have to re-plant trees when they move them. On this particular project alone, remember, they removed 500 inches of mature trees and they will re-plant 22 trees that are 5 to 7 feet tall, 20 to 30 feet apart. Let's say that these trees are a whopping 3 inches in diameter. That means IDOT will have re-planted 66 inches of trees when they removed 500 inches of them! The real significant part of this is that they take out old-growth hardwood trees and replace them with soft wood trees like Poplars or Pines that grow quickly and have a shorter life cycle, but aren't as substantial. And this is just ONE EXAMPLE!

Nimsky did add that, due to new safety regulations from the government, IDOT is supposed to remove as many guardrails as humanly possible because they are a safety hazard. So, IDOT also changed the edge of the road from dropping directly down to something that slopes outward. In all of the 15 years that I've lived here, I have never heard of anyone catapulting over that guardrail. Have you? I also know that there are exceptions made to that regulation depending upon the landscaping, buildings, etc. The simply chose not to make an exception in this case.

If you feel compelled to explain to IDOT that we are interested in maintaining the beauty of our community, that they cannot simply come in and destroy it piece by piece (using OUR money to do it), for that is exactly how communities lose their greenery, in little pieces, then I suggest you write directly to: Jim Easterly of IDOT, for he is the District Engineer or call Mike Prithett regarding upcoming projects at 346-3151. If IDOT hears enough complaints from the very citizens who pay for their salaries, they might just develop a little common sense. Then again, stranger things have happened.

Flowers were thoughtful

TO THE EDITOR:
I would like to thank Boy Scout Troop 48 for placing flags on veteran's graves in St. John's Cemetery on Veteran's Day. It was a wonderful gesture.

It was a comfort to families to know that the veterans were remembered.

A special thanks to Scott Kusmierzak for all the research he did.

We live in a wonderful country and the veterans helped to make this a free nation for all of us.

I'm sure many veterans were smiling down on these scouts and saluting them.

Where were the crowds?

TO THE EDITOR:
I stood with reverence among the sparse group on Veteran's Day at the Greater Granite City War Memorial Park paying tribute to our honored dead and all those who served our great country.

My brother's name, Jack Gray, killed in Italy during World War II, was listed on the memorial. Some of the brave, courageous survivors of those wars stood at attention with tears in their eyes remembering loved ones and buddies.

But, where were the crowds who gather at football and soccer games and malls? Could we not have had a better showing of respect for these proud veterans? Would it have expected too much to have that section of Niederhagen Avenue blocked off for that brief time and not have the speech, Anthem and prayer almost drowned out by traffic noise?

I would like to publicly thank everyone for their sacrifices, without them, we wouldn't have a country. Thanks to all who organized and took part in this meaningful service. Next Memorial and Veteran's Day could be the main thought for that day at least be — "Lest We Forget."

Donations helping Phoenix Center

$1000 collected so far still not enough to reopen doors

By Michael Heil
Staff writer

Donations have been coming in since the Phoenix Crisis Center closed in November, but not to the extent to reopen its doors. So far about $1,000 in individual donations have been received.

"The community has been very supportive of us through the crisis," said Carolyn Burden, the shelter's executive director.

They realized the need for the shelter," said Carolyn Burden, the shelter's executive director.

The shelter that aided domestic violence victims for 15 years and hurdled a financial crisis in 1998, closed Nov. 18 because contributions declined during the summer, putting the shelter in a financial quandary by fall. At the time of its closure, the center had an operational budget of $130,000, staffed three social workers and housed three domestic violence victims, who were relocated. The Rev. James Hahs, president of the shelter's board of directors, said in November that if the shelter is to reopen it must become and remain financially stable. "The board has determined that no one is served well when our financial house is in disarray," Hahs said. "We hope and pray that the cessation of residential services is temporary."

According to Burden, the shelter's board of directors met Nov. 9 to discuss what avenues to take to fully reopen the facility. One of the stumbling blocks, she said, is staff payroll. Burden said the board agreed that a long-term funding program is a necessary means by which to pay the staff and, in January, plans to apply for a Violent Crimes Victims' Assistants program that would resolve that problem. As far as utilities and rent, the shelter is able to pay for those through a Madison County Emergency Grant.

Burden said the remaining operational costs can be paid through individual donations and by traditional funding through the Nicole Brown Simpson Foundation, the Attorney General's Office and Tri-Cities United Way.

Although the shelter has discontinued its service to house domestic violence victims, counseling is still pro-

Costello supports MidAmerica airport

By Michael Heil
Staff writer

While some criticize MidAmerica Airport as a major boondoggle, U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello (D-Belleville) said there are a number of positive things about to happen there.

There is very little activity at the terminal, except for maintenance crews and other employees.

While county officials constantly say they are attempting to attract business, the only major user is the Air Force.

However, Costello said people need to be patient.

There are at least three companies right now talking with county officials about locating at MidAmerica," he said. "One is a major company out of Texas that would provide a minimum of 100 jobs, and probably several hundred jobs long-term. Another is a passenger airline and there is a cargo company that is talking too."

Costello said there is "absolutely no doubt in my mind" that if people will be patient, the airport will be a success.

He pointed out that when Dulles International opened in Washington D.C., people said it would never work, and today it is a very busy airport.

He said the Dallas/Ft. Worth airport, along with several others around the country, were very similar.

"It sat, but now it's very busy," he said. "You'll be able to say the same thing about MidAmerica in the near future."

He also pointed out that projects such as the airport, Metrolink, and new bridges are very long-term.

"These are not things that happen overnight and they are not going to be a success overnight," he said. "We have planned for the future."

brand new decorative street-lamp that was dedicated in a grand lighting ceremony only hours before.

James Onstott, 25, of the 800 block of Troy Road in Edwardsville, was cited for driving under the influence and improper lane usage after a chain-reaction crash delivered a knockout punch to the brand new light in front of the Madison County Courthouse.

According to police reports, Onstott was driving southbound on North Main Street at about 2:46 a.m. Sunday when his vehicle struck an unoccupied pickup truck parked on the southbound side of the street. The collision had sufficient force to drive the truck over the curb and into the light.

When police arrived, they found "two extensively damaged vehicles and a street-lamp lying on the ground."

The light, one of almost 100 new streetlamps put up as part of the $1 million Downtown Streetscape Project, had never even been illuminated. The lighting ceremony had taken place at 5 p.m. Saturday as part of the Winter Festival of Lights, but that particular lamp post is connected to electrical circuits on the unfinished St. Louis Street section of the project, said Alderman Rich Walker, 7th Ward, who has overseen much of the project.

Onstott failed field sobriety tests at the scene. A preliminary breath analysis estimated his blood-alcohol content at 0.15 percent. After his arrest, officers using a more accurate test at the police station determined it was actually 0.21 percent, close to three times the legal limit of 0.08 percent.

According to police reports, Onstott admitted he had been drinking at Rusty's Restaurant from about 7 p.m. Saturday until 2 a.m. Sunday before leaving and driving a short way southward on North Main Street, where he crashed his vehicle. After being served with a summary suspension and posting bond, Onstott was released with a notice to appear in court.

On Monday, orange cones deterred pedestrians from walking over the rumpled brickwork that had surrounded the base of the light. Walker said work is speeding ahead on the installation of the last shipment of light poles this week. He estimated work would be completed around Christmas.

"I was surprised - and disappointed," Walker said.

"People run into stop signs all the time, so you just have to roll with the punches. We'll get it replaced and all of it up and working as soon as we can."

Walker said he was thankful no one was injured seriously, noting the situation could have been much worse. Although the new pole snapped apart, the old poles were "concrete through and through," he said. Walker said the replacement likely would not be activated, there also was no electricity to be concerned about.

Onstott's insurance agent may not have reason to be so happy about which pole was destroyed. Walker said the replacement likely would cost up to $3,500, depending on installation and other factors.

The city, he said, paid $3,258 for each of the lights, but that was "when it was part of 98 other lights."

Four from Madison County contract hepatitis

Health Dept. cautions those dining at St. Louis restaurant

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

Four Madison County residents contracted the hepatitis A virus after eating at a restaurant in downtown St. Louis. The Madison County residents are among several people infected after eating at the Market Street Deli, 2906 Market St., between Oct. 15 and Nov. 15. Signs and symptoms of the virus usually develop within 15 to 50 days. People who think they may be affected should see a doctor, said Debra M. Tscheschk, personal health services manager at the Madison County Health Department. The symptoms include fatigue, poor appetite, fever and vomiting. Urine may become darker and jaundice may appear.

Health Department officials said there have been 67 cases of hepatitis A in Madison County this year.

"We have been seeing a rise in the numbers of hepatitis A cases this year," Tscheschk said. "Hand-washing remains our best defense to break the cycle of transmission of this disease."

"If you have any health problems that weaken your body's ability to fight disease, seek the advice of your physician in obtaining the hepatitis A vaccine," she said.

Illinoisans can make living will wishes known on drivers licenses

By Linda N. Weller
Staff writer

A state senator who was willing to go to bat legislatively so Illinoisans can ensure their end-of-life medical care wishes are carried out during an emergency discovered recently that a little-known provision already is in place.

The problem is, hardly anyone knows about it, said state Sen. Evelyn Bowles, D-Edwardsville.

"They can utilize it and should utilize it," Bowles said. "It's wonderful they found it," said Bowles. "It has everything we wanted; now we don't have to pass any legislation."

"It's been a real answer to our prayers," Walston said. Walston said the Springfield staff expressed a new commitment to increasing the use of the seal currently provided to indicate the existence of such documents.

Representatives of the office could not be reached for comment Monday afternoon to discuss how they plan to promote availability of the stickers.

Staff at Secretary of State facilities can dispense the cards and stickers but are not authorized to give advice about living wills, Bowles said. The wills can spell out a person's desires concerning kind of medical treatment wanted, level of comfort, how he or she wants to be treated and whom they entrust with their health care decisions if they are not able to speak for themselves, among other aspects.

Walston, a registered nurse and resident of Rosewood Heights, said the stickers alert the personnel to the existence of a living will. Such wills are filed with family members, an attorney and physician. Walston said only 10 percent of Americans have living wills.

"It is a very basic document," Bowles said. "It is very difficult for people to think about dying," said Walston, who formerly worked as an emergency room nurse. "The coalition tries to prevent people from unwanted medical care."

Bowles is a member of the coalition's board.

Year 2000 woes rebuffed

New year poses no problem, companies say

By Rachael Kornblum
Staff writer

If you're still worried you won't have telephone service, heat, access to your savings or other conveniences come Jan. 1, take heart.

Representatives from companies locally and nationally say they are prepared for year 2000 computer conversions, and don't expect any problems.

Rick Hargraves, director of corporate communications for Laclede

METRO AREA

Gas Co., said the company has analyzed, upgraded, converted, replaced, tested and re-tested its computer systems.

"Based on the information available to us at this time, we don't expect any interruption in our business operations as a result of Y2K," he said.

So-called "Y2K" fears that computer systems wouldn't distinguish between the years 2000 and 1900 convinced companies worldwide to revamp their systems.

Susan Gallagher, spokeswoman for Ameren Corp., said the North American Electric Reliability Council has put Ameren on its "ready" list of utilities for the year 2000. Ameren owns AmerenUE and AmerenCIPS, which serve 1.5 million customers in Missouri and Illinois.

"We don't expect Jan. 1, 2000, to be any different from any other day," she said. As it always does in winter, AmerenUE encourages customers to be prepared for a winter storm.

Of all the national member financial institutions the Federal Reserve Bank regulates, 99.8 percent have been rated satisfactory Y2K preparations, said Jeff Dale, assistant vice president for century date change for the St. Louis office of the Federal Reserve Bank.

The dozen that are not prepared are not in Missouri. "Remember, we all have multiple ways of paying for things," he said. "To assume that they all won't work at the same time is not a fair assumption."

In addition, companies that distribute or use debit card and ATM machines in stores have extensively tested their machines, Dale said.

"If you don't believe that I have your best interests at heart, I definitely have my own in mind," Dale said. "We want to stay in business, and I want to have my job next year."

Dale advises people not to withdraw large amounts of money from the bank in anticipation of Y2K.

"Your money is fully secured if it's in the bank. So don't go and empty your accounts," he said. "Your money is not insured in your wallet."

The U.S. Postal Service was one of the first government agencies to begin work on the problem three years ago, said Burt St. John, a postal service spokesman. The agency has established a history in dealing with disturbances, such as bad weather, power outages and transportation problems; Y2K is no different, he said.

"We've made sure we have a way to keep mail moving if there is a problem," he said. "Our goal is that people will see business as usual (after New Year's)."

Representatives from Southwestern Bell, Unity Health Systems, BJC Health Systems, Schnucks Markets, the American Red Cross, Laclede Gas and the Federal Reserve Bank all said at a recent informational session in Creve Coeur they are prepared for Y2K.

Janet Rainford, area manager of corporate projects for Southwestern Bell, said the company's biggest concern is not that phone systems will fail, but that lines will be congested.

Reduce stress with time management during holidays

By Jennifer Saxton
Staff writer

The holiday season is often one of the most stressful times of the year. To reduce stress, time management is key.

The Madison County Health Department offers a list of ways to reduce stress as a gift to everyone.

Here are 20 tips to reduce stress during the holidays:

- Avoid overdoing it. Lighten your "to do" list. Do what you choose to do. Don't have to do everything.
- Shorten your card and gift lists. Do not feel guilty for keeping within your limited budget.
- Shop from catalogs or gift certificates. Unless you enjoy wrapping.
- Delegate; do not turn down offers of help.

- Go to bed and get up about the same time each day. Being rested eases stress tremendously.

- Have regular, sit-down meals. Slow down rather than eating on the run. You won't have the added stress of knowing you're eating unhealthy.

- Limit coffee, salt, alcohol and sweets. Too many can produce the same symptoms as an overdose of stress.

- Ask people for help when you need it. Do not expect them to read your mind.

- Be flexible with family members.

- Compromise on traditions.

- Have realistic expectations of yourself and others.

- Don't make any drastic changes in your life now.

- Don't let yourself be overwhelmed with worry.

- Be aware of your breathing pattern. Try breathing very slowly through your nose when stressed.

- Exercise regularly - something you'll enjoy enough to stay with - to relieve tension and keep your body and mind well-tuned.

- Laugh more. Laughter can be the best medicine for stress.

- Find time for yourself. Spend more time doing things you like and do well.

- Celebrate the holidays the way you want, as there is no right way.

- If you entertain, keep it simple. Store bought foods, buffet style if party is large.

- Learn to say no if you do not have the time or energy, and don't feel

Seniors Unlimited meet at Niedringhaus United Church

Seniors Unlimited of Niedringhaus United Church met recently in Wesley Hall of the church. Rev. Gary Motta gave a meditation entitled "Christmas Memories." He also offered grace before lunch. After a delicious catered meal, the Wild Bird Sanctuary on Raptor Awareness presented a program. They are from Eureka, Mo.

The handlers spoke on the birds that had to fly from one handler to the other handler. The birds were a hawk from out west, Red Tail Hawk, Black Vulture Gator (Buzard), Peregrine Falcon, which is the fastest in the world, Great Horned Owl, Chinsaw (Screech) and the Barn Owl.

The audience enjoyed seeing the birds fly over their heads from handler to handler. Georgina McMillan announced the group would be taking a trip Dec. 16 to see the Christmas lights at St. Louis Tilles County Park. Director Warren Collins announced that there would not be a meeting in December.

Darin and Laura Hendrickson, former residents, now of Kirkwood, Mo., have announced the arrival of Reed Larsen Hendrickson on Sept. 28 at Missouri Baptist Hospital. He weighed 7 pounds, 11 ounces.

Paternal grandparents are Alexis Sanasarian of Granite City and Terry and Patty Hendrickson of Freeburg. Great-grandparents are Bill and Ilene Hendrickson of Granite City and Mary Thebeau of Madison.

Dewayne Orendor has returned to his home in Nashville, Tenn., after spending several weeks visiting his mother, Glodene Orendor, who is recovering from heart surgery.

In January 1999, the Youth of Emmanuel Baptist Church made plans and started working toward attending Centrifuge 99 at Panama City, Fla., and reserved 20 places at Youthlink 2000. To raise the expense monies, they took over the janitorial work at church each month received proceeds of the Baptist men's barbecue receipts.

They had several car washes and rented services to members for odd jobs. By the end of July they had raised the needed amount and paid $500 for Youthlink as well.

On July 30, 11 youth with one male and two female counselors went to Florida. The only cost was their food and spending money. The Emmanuel Baptist Youth Ministry has grown, led by Joyce Kendrick and Pat Pearman. In January the enrollment was 18 with average attendance of eight. As of September, the enrollment was 27 with average attendance of 20 and wonderful things are still happening.

Jolene Terrell has served the Madison County Baptist Association as administrative secretary for the past five years. Recently, the association presented a certificate of appreciation to her along with a basket of silk flowers and gift certificate to Red Lobster. Both Jolene and the association are looking to many more years of togetherness.

The Saturn Car Club had its October meeting at North County and reported on the national kidney foundation chili cookoff as being a great day. Workers sold 446 snow cones and frozen candy bars. Those who worked very hard making it a success were Cheryl Bates, Don and Marilynne counts, Linda Gordon, DJ Hawkins, Ken and Marion Lambrechts, Dick Leutinger, Emma Minzes, Marie Pratte and Charlie and Carol Rinkus.

Canned goods were collected by the club during October and donated to Loaves and Fishes in Maryland Heights and distributed to the poor and homeless. Ken and Marian Lambrechts were members of the month.

The 4th annual fall foliage run was Oct. 24. After meeting in St. Charles, club members caravanned to Clarksville, Mo., and viewed the dam and other historic sights in Troy, Mo., and lunched at Chubby's Restaurant, good food and also noted for their thrown rolls. New members are wanted, but don't have to be a member to enjoy the trips.

Don and Marilynne counts, charter members of the club were September Members of the Month.

On Nov. 21, the annual Bonfire and Caroling practice was at the home of Don and Linda Bernaba on Talbot court. This year, club members will be singing carols at the Veronica House in Bridgeton on Dec. 16. For Thanksgiving they donated two full turkey dinners to both "Room at the Inn" and "Loaves and Fishes." They also furnished a full turkey dinner to a local family that needed help.

She has been active in sharing recipes and planning activities for the classroom. Her hobby is doing stain glass. She works full-time as a trainer of thoroughbreds at Fairmount Park racetrack.

She believes Head Start parents should read to their children, because reading keeps parents close to their children. She also encourages parents to become active in their children and become a representative on the Policy Council, as this is a way to help share in the success of the Head Start program.

Susie Horton, of Maryville Road, has returned home from Boaz, Ky., where she visited John and Marsha Workman. She also visited her grandson and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Reynolds and her great-grandson, John Jr., who was born in November.

the 3000 block of Edgewood and maulled a 3-year-old 35-pound mix breed named Joe. Joe's front legs were ripped open and required three hours' surgery to be stitched. The owners of Joe, Ilene and Rick Dawdy, want Sarge removed from their neighborhood because they fear the animal may attack a child or another dog if it again flees Taylor's home. Neighbors have teamed up with the Dawdys, voicing their concerns about Sarge at recent Granite City Council meetings.

"Rick Dawdy, who attended Tuesday night's council meeting to listen to aldermen discuss Sarge's situation, said he was delighted to hear that Taylor had to obtain an insurance policy."

"It's the law, and the owner should be held responsible," Dawdy said. Michelle Middleton, who resides in the 3200 block of Edgewood, echoed what Dawdy said.

"She should be required to get the policy. If she doesn't, the dog's gone. Then, I won't worry about my children playing outside," Middleton said. "The dog is vicious and dangerous and doesn't belong in our neighborhood."

Aldermen agreed Tuesday that it would be in the best interest of the city not to only enforce the vicious dog insurance policy, but also change the policy from $50,000 to $200,000 and raise the permit fee for such an animal from $25 to $100. The council could vote on the changes at its next council meeting set for Nov. 14.

Sixth Ward Alderman Sandy Shaw called the changes "prudent."

Seventh Ward Alderman Kim MacTaggart said they "may help the city avoid a similar situation."

According to city inspectors, Taylor has complied to all vicious dog requirements except for the insurance policy.

An emergency order of protection was filed Friday on Kim P. MacTaggart's behalf. A stipulation of the protection order stated that Mac Taggart must stay 100 feet from his wife. The couples' divorce is also a young woman. The victim initially told police that Johnson had held her against her will, but later changed her story.

Kim P. MacTaggart has been an alderman since 1993. She is the chairman of the Downtown Rehabilitation Committee and the Insurance and Safety Committee and is a member of the Street & Alley Committee. Mac Taggart, who could not be reached for comment Tuesday, began working for the city as an assistant comptroller in 1986.

Greg McCalley, who served as assistant comptroller under Mac Taggart, has been appointed comptroller.

Johnson also has another battery case pending, in which he was charged after reportedly hitting someone while trying to purchase marijuana.

Additional charges may be filed in the incident. The business created controversy and led to the passing of ordinances dealing with adult businesses after residents complained because a sign said the business would offer massage services by appointment. That has since been painted out of the sign.

The business that is licensed to sell body products such as shampoos and body oils, recently opened. Johnson also has a criminal record including a conviction for involuntary manslaughter and possession of a firearm by a felon in the shooting death of a 13-year-old Venice girl in 1994.

the bridge, and are taking other security measures to increase toll collections.

The bridge is still in a precarious financial situation, with the payment of back taxes being the most pressing issue.

The city of Venice owes St. Louis more than $500,000 in property taxes for the bridge, and earlier this year, St. Louis took steps to sell the Missouri portion of the bridge.

If that would happen, IDOT has said it would pull funding for a $12 million renovation project for that section of the bridge.

tion of the bridge.

Without those renovations, the bridge deck on the western side is expected to fail in five years or less.

To stall the sale of the bridge, Council recently made a third $50,000 payment to St. Louis. However, that money is coming from funds slated for engineering work on the renovation. If the city cannot pay for the engineering work, the project will not be completed.

A task force chaired by Madison County Board chairman Rudy Papa was formed to deal with the problem, but no solution has been found.

2nd quarter woes continue for GCHS

Turnovers also hurt Warriors in SWC loss to Maroons

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Granite City gave Belleville West all it could handle on Tuesday, but the Warriors couldn't duplicate last year's conference win and fell 57-46 at home.

Granite jumped out to the early 10-7 lead after one quarter. But then the young fingers went slack and the ball, along with the game, slipped away.

"The second quarter seems to be our nemesis this year," Granite City coach John Moad said. "We come out and play a good first quarter and show a lot of emotion early. Then we go through a lull. Then we come back and play a strong second half."

"Once we come through the second quarter, we are fine, and we compete pretty well. I don't know whether we can attribute that to the fact that we are a young team. But it has been a problem for us."

A bright spot for the Warriors Tuesday night was the play of sophomore guard Erin Tyler, who scored 10 points and seemed to settle into her role as a varsity starter.

"Erin Tyler played outstanding," Moad said. "It was her best game of the year by far. She didn't have any of that nervousness she has shown at times in our earlier games. She looked confident and comfortable out there. Maybe she is just maturing into a varsity basketball player."

The maturation was not limited to Tyler. Kelly Mitchell, another sophomore, scored four points and assisted with the stingy defense that held the Maroons below 60 points.

"Kelly Mitchell played great," Moad said. "We just need to get her to shoot more. She is such an unselfish player. But we want to get her to take more shots of her own."

"Our sophomore backcourt is really coming along. They are starting to arrive and play some good basketball."

Senior Jessica Wallace and junior Ashley Bogovich shared the lead for the Warriors, scoring 11 points each.

Jaime Luggie scored 20 for the Maroons, and Casey Hunter tossed in 15 to salt away the victory.

"Throughout the game, we would get it down to five, six or seven points," Moad said. "But then we would make a turnover at a crucial time. It hurt us."

"We would get it down to six points and throw the ball away with no pressure. They would take it back down and get an easy basket, and put us right out of it again."

"We didn't play a bad ballgame. It was just crucial turnovers at critical times that killed us."

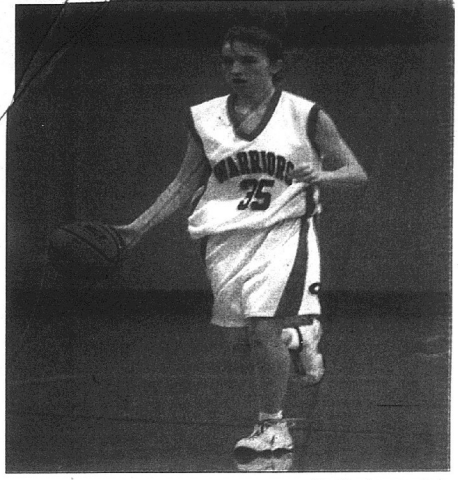

Revenge should be a nice motivational factor tonight at home against Alton, who beat the Warriors by two in the Redbird Classic Tournament to open the season.

"That's a game I hope that the girls want as badly as I do," Moad said. "We got up by 10 or 12 points early in the fourth quarter, and we let it slip away. We had 10 turnovers and didn't handle the pressure well at all late in the game. We needed to come out and handle their pressure better and take it to them."

Warriors aim for conference win against Maroons

Coach: Squad has overcome doubt

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Granite City boys basketball team was unable to duplicate last year's 4-1 run through the Redbird Classic Preseason Tournament at Alton.

Instead, the Warriors opened the 1999-2000 season with a 1-3 showing.

But Granite City accomplished something more important this past weekend. First, they upended Southwestern Conference foe Edwardsville 49-38 Friday in the Tigers' house. Then they came back Saturday with a strong performance to beat Triad 69-35.

"We have new kids in the lineup who are still getting used to each other," Granite City head coach John VanBuskirk said. "I think that had something to do with it. They have played a few more games together and are getting some confidence in each other."

"Probably the biggest sign is that belief in yourself. When you start 1-3, you start doubting yourself and your teammates. But they worked real hard in the week leading up to it."

Edwardsville and Triad games and never gave up. They focused in practice."

The Tigers silenced Granite's big guns, Matt Pistorius and Zack May. But the rest of the team rose up and shot down Edwardsville.

"Edwardsville worked real hard to stop Zack and Matt, but the other three kids stepped up," VanBuskirk said. "Teddy Wallace started the game with a big 3-pointer. Brundon Smith scored 14 points. (The Tigers) doubled away from Justin Slay, and Justin made wide-open jumpers."

"You have to give Zack and Matt credit. They didn't force things. They gave the ball to those other kids in those situations, and we won because of it."

The 3-3 Warriors go at it again this Saturday, with a home game against SWC opponent Belleville West.

"They are a physical team,"

VanBuskirk said. "They have a couple of big 6-foot-7 kids who will cause us problems. They have a tough man-to-man defense. They run the floor and like to get easy baskets."

Granite City sweeps Comanches; boys beat O'Fallon as girls fall

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Granite City bowlers just keep rolling along.

The boys and girls swept a pair from Cahokia on Nov. 30 at AMF Bowling in Granite City.

The boys used a 918 series in the first game to propel themselves to a 27½-8½ win against the Comanches.

Travis Papp (228), Calvin Powell (220), John Nicol (260) and Brad Smith (210) hit the lanes running in that decisive first set.

"The boys did fabulous," Granite City coach Bill Pulise said. "In that first game we beat them by almost 200 pins. They have definitely been on a roll. Travis Papp has been real hot. After three matches he has bowled eight games and he has a 238 average. He ended up with a 213 average last year."

Ashley Reynolds bowled 184 and 207 to lead the girls to a 34-2 scalping of the visiting tribe. Meghan Ryan pitched in with a 181 in the 692-584 first-game victory.

"Ashley started off real strong again," Pulise said. "For that first game we beat them by 180 pins. When Ashley bowled the 207 in the second game, we beat them by 153. So far Ashley has bowled eight games and her average is 191 so she has really come on strong. After a slow start in her first match of the season, she has turned it on."

"For both the boys and girls, after the first two games we had the match in hand. After that I tried to get every body I could in so that we could get some more experience."

Against O'Fallon two days later, the Warriors had a tougher go and split results down the gender divide.

The boys hung in after a tepid start to beat the Panthers 25-11.

"At the very beginning, we were a little concerned," Pulise said. "In the first game, we bowled an 814, which is pretty good, and lost by two pins. Even with Travis bowling a 246, we only got one point out of nine."

"One thing I have told these guys is that in another team's house, the other team has the advantage, so we need to be patient."

The boys followed Pulise's

IHSA weathers year of lopsided scores in gridiron playoffs

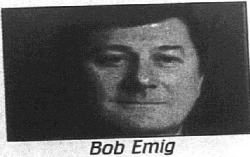

Did you notice the lopsided scores in this year's Illinois high school football playoffs?

It's not what the IHSA fathers ordered. Obviously, they would have preferred much tighter contests in the state's showcase at the University of Illinois.

Only the Class A championship game, with Carthage edging Galena 14-12, resembled anything close to a tight contest. After that, Stillman Valley routed Macon Meridian 28-0 in Class 2A.

Byron handled St. Joseph-Ogden 41-9 in Class 1A. Joliet Catholic rolled over Metamora 48-3 in 4A. Chicago Mount Carmel shut down Chicago Marian 31-7 in 5A. And Naperville Central whipped Schaumburg 54-31 in 6A. The average point spread was a whopping 24.5 points.

Personally, I think the weather had a lot to do with it. If you can remember, this year's Thanksgiving weekend was beautiful for that time of the year. Good teams were able to strut their stuff and not worry about the weather being a factor. They weren't limited because of the weather of what they could do on the field. In years past, the weather, typically windy and rainy at Illinois State University, served as an equalizer. The underdog wasn't such an underdog, after all.

Tim Dougherty, head football coach at Edwardsville High, doesn't see a trend developing. He said it was just one of those years.

"It was just the opposite last year," Dougherty said of 1998, when four of the six games were decided by 14 points or less. "You just had some superior teams this year. The second best teams were just that much further away from the best."

"Momentum plays a big part in any football game. And it's no different in the playoffs. Once the good teams get on a roll, they are hard to stop."

Dougherty points to Joliet Catholic's win against Metamora. He said an interception for a touchdown turned the tide in Joliet's favor, and the Hilltoppers never looked back.

Paul Bassler, head football coach at Triad High School, said champions

Byron and Stillman Valley played off of each other. They are both in the tough Big Northern Conference and were able to bring home two state championships to that league.

"Byron was extremely talented," Bassler said. "They broke East St. Louis' record for most points in a season."

Bassler also saw the good weather as a factor.

"I believe the nice weather helped to run the scores high," he said. "The weather didn't prevent the teams from playing a wide-open game. There was a lot more passing than usual."

Bassler also believes the quality of the teams were such that one mistake could hurt the other team badly.

"Against a good team, you just can't make mistakes," he said. "They'll kill you. And there were a lot of good champions this season."

For the record, the 24.5 point average differential in the games this season was the second highest in state history. In 1985, the six games were decided by a 25.0 average, headed by East St. Louis' 46-0 rout of Chicago Brother Rice in the 6A game.

The Flyers hold the state record for the most lopsided victory when it ran over Harvey Thornton 55-8 in the 6A title match.

On the average, state championship games have been decided by 15.8 points per game in all classes. The closest games have been in 5A with a 10.4 average margin of victory, followed by 4A at 13.3, 1A at 15.5, 2A at 17.1, 3A at 18.04, and 6A at 19.7.

In a way, it would make sense that Class 6A would have the widest margin of victory because it's not restricted by enrollment at the higher end. The other five classes, however, fall within enrollment figures.

Roxie Simpson, a junior forward from McKendree College, has been named to the 1999 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics honor roll. Simpson is the only woman's soccer team player to be named.

"Roxie was definitely our top player this season," said McKendree head coach Tim Strangre. "The team was very fortunate to have her receive."

Simpson, a Granite City native, led the Bearsats this season in scoring with seven goals and 22 assists for 26 points.

Simpson was also a first-team selection in the American Midwest Conference and a first-team Region V selection while leading the Bearsats to a fourth-place finish in the AMC.

During the season, the Granite City native was also named to the All-Midwest team. Simpson is majoring in marketing at McKendree.

Tara Tomlinson, another Granite City alum, had four goals and six assists for eight points. She was also named to the All-Midwest team.

command and won the second game 796-748 behind Nicol's 231. They gained seven of nine points to trail by two overall.

"In the third game I put in Paul Richter and Gary Brooks, who are veterans from last year's program," Puhse said. "Paul bowled a 247 and Gary bowled 215. I moved Travis to a different spot in the lineup to get another point, and he gave us a 233."

The Warriors beat O'Fallon 883-746 to take all nine points in the third game and eight of nine

The girls had less luck against the Panthers, losing for the first time this season 24-12.

"Ashley started off strong with a 201," Puhse said.

*Meghan Ryan had a 180 in the first game, and we bowled 661, but they had 698 to win. We had a couple of bowlers have some trouble, so I put in Melanie Mayes in the second game, and she bowled 184. Meghan (204) and Ashley (181) did well, but we lost that second game by 38 pins (719-681).

"In the first game, we only got one point, and in the second "In the third game, I put Shelley Pulaski back in to get her straightened out and she did much better (191)."

"We won that last game and ended up losing by only 18 total pins, so we really came back and made it close," Puhse said. "We actually came close to coming all the way back for the win."

"Even though they lost, I am proud of the girls for the way they hung in there and came."

back. It was a good learning experience and it was an out of (Southwestern) Conference match, so we are still undefeated there. We hope they just learn from the experience."

The boys (3-0 overall, 1-0 in conference) and girls (2-1, 1-0) faced Collinsville away Tuesday before hosting Alton Wednesday and Edwardsville Thursday at Rowland.

Though they are undefeated in the early conference schedule, the Warriors know that the winter can quickly produce discontent from the next heavily-

"We won the first two conference games last year, and we want to do it again," VanBuskirk said. "We have a week to prepare for Belleville West, so we should have everything covered. Hopefully, we get a good performance out of six or seven kids, and we will be all right."

In the off-season, what's the next best thing to "being there" at the races?

Probably the Winston Cup Preview, scheduled for Jan. 15, 2000, at Lawrence Joel Veterans Memorial Coliseum in Winston-Salem, N.C. Last year the event, in which virtually every driver participated, raised $220,000 for charity.

There is probably no better place to accumulate autographs, handshakes and brief conversations with one's favorite drivers, and all it costs is $15 (children under 12 free). The event is highly planned and organized, and many show cars, interactive displays and souvenir trailers are on-site.

For more information, visit the coliseum's Web site (www.ljvm.com), or

THE WINSTON CUP CIRCUIT

PROFILE

Rookie of the Year

Tony Stewart was named the 1999 Rookie of the Year.

By Monte Dutton
 NASCAR This Week
 The native Hoosier made a glorious trip to the Big Apple for the Winston Cup Awards banquet. Tony Stewart had never been to New York City until last week when he was honored as Rookie of the Year at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel's Grand Ballroom. Stewart finished fourth in the point standings, won three races and had what most considered to be the best rookie season in NASCAR history.

AGE: 28
HOMETOWN: Born and raised in Columbus, Ind., also lived in Rushville, Ind.
MARITAL STATUS: Single
CAR: No. 14 Home Depot Pontiac Grand Prix, owned by Joe Gibbs

RECORD: 34 starts, 2 poles, 3 wins, 12 top-five finishes, 21 top-10s, almost $3 million in career earnings
FIRSTS: Start (Feb. 19, 1999, at Daytona), pole (April 18, 1999, at Martinsville), win (Sept. 11, 1999, at Richmond)

WHAT DID YOU THINK OF NEW YORK? "It is almost hard to describe my first impressions of New York City. When I arrived very late Tuesday night, all there was to see was lights everywhere I looked, including straight up. First to the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel; very impressive. Old, elegant and dignified. (It was) a good time to remember all of the manners that my mom worked so hard to teach me when I was a kid."

DID YOU SEE THE SIGHTS? "Thanks to Home Depot, a limo driven by Alberto picked us up at the hotel door and off we went, first to see the Statue of Liberty. We opted to view the lady from the park below the World Trade Center twin towers rather than take the boat, in the interest of time and the fact that the wind was really cold. After reading about how many stairs and floor equivalents there were inside to get to the top, I did learn that not only is the statue the symbol of freedom as you enter our country, but the peak of one arm in the air is the perfect method of hailing a cab! I had to give Alberto a little help on getting through traffic NASCAR-style, but he caught on fast!"

DID YOU DO ANY SHOPPING? "After lunch I was off to Macy's so I could dress a little more 'New York.' A cool leather coat and other accessories later, we were off to (Greenwich) Village for dinner at a theme restaurant called Jekyll and Hyde's. They seemed to know a bunch about NASCAR and a guy named Tony Stewart. Then to the Orpheum Theater to see 'Stamp.' It was great. What rhythm and talent. After that, a peek at a couple of New York nightclubs. Interesting. I must say."

WHAT DID YOU LIKE BEST ABOUT THE CITY? "The best thing about New York? People yelling at each other from cars, bicycles, push carts, Rollerblades and every other form of transportation you can think of. The worst thing? The traffic. Man, what a mess. I don't think I could handle it on a daily basis."

Your Turn

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,
 (In response to letter criticizing NASCAR for setting a poor example for kids):

Like you said, all sports really care about kids, does he let his kids watch wrestling in a day and age when either major faction, WCW or WWF, allows its wrestlers to use vulgar language and obscene gestures? I think we should all think better of NASCAR, which is in general a very good sport.

Bill Herchel
 Hazleton, Pa.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
 I have some questions concerning the TV deal for 2001 and beyond.

What will happen to "Inside NASCAR," "Raceday," "RPM 2Nite" and pre-race shows?

Will we see qualifying and "happy hour"?

Every time a network station shows the races, there are no interviews immediately after the race. (Will this continue?)

This year ABC showed one race, but when it was delayed, they switched to a college basketball playoff game. Is this going to continue to happen?

Janet Rowland
 Greenwood, S.C.

Only time will tell, but NASCAR officials tell us that most of these concerns have been covered in negotiations. As for the highlights shows, either they will continue (ESPN has no plans to discontinue "RPM 2Nite") or be replaced by similar shows on the new networks. If delays cause scheduling problems, races would likely be shifted to cable partners, such as F/X or a Fox Sports Net site or perhaps, in NBC's case, one of the Turner stations. NASCAR is also close to announcing its own 24-hour racing network.

Fan Tips

■ The Nashville Network, which televises a wide variety of motorsports competition, has lent its name to a new collection of video games called "TNN Motorsports Greatest Hits". The packet includes Test Drive: Off-Road 2, Test Drive 4 and Destruction Derby 2, all in one package. ## Invest in good companies not 'hot' stock markets

By Jeff Proesser
Staff writer

Not that long ago, a Dow Jones Industrial Average of 10,000 seemed scarcely imaginable. Yet, we reached it. And, little more than a month later, we zipped through to 11,000. Now, few people would deny the possibility of the Dow reaching 15,000 in the foreseeable future.

All the attention paid to this sizzling stock market generates significant heat, in the form of media coverage. But it doesn't shed much light on the practice of good, solid long-term investing. In the first place, the Dow Jones Industrial Average represents only 30 blue chips U.S. stocks, including household names such as General Motors, AT&T, Coca-Cola and Disney. In the total universe of thousands of stocks, many have not fared nearly as well as those in the Dow over the past few years. Consequently, not all investors have prospered equally during the current record-breaking bull market. And that's why it's not a good idea to "chase" a hot market. Even if the Dow, or any other market index, is showing stellar returns, you could still end up with a stock that will underperform for a long time.

Does that mean you should totally ignore the market when making investment decisions? Not necessarily. If, for example, you are interested in investing in a particular industry and that industry has done poorly in recent months, then you'd want to know this. Specifically, you'd want to know why this sector has struggled. Is it because of transitory economic issues, such as rising interest rates? Or is it because the industry is actually fading, with products that are losing relevance in today's world?

Obviously, this type of industry-specific knowledge would be indispensable to you. But you can't stop there. To make truly informed investment decisions, you need to thoroughly research the companies you're interested in. Examine each company's fundamentals. Is the company's stock price supported by its earnings? If the company pays dividends, have they increased over the years? Is its management team stable? Are its products competitive? Is it well-positioned to benefit from changing demographic trends?

Once you're convinced that you've found a company with strong fundamentals and solid prospects, you can make a purchase decision with confidence.

If you do purchase the stock, ignore the day-to-day price fluctuations - and keep your focus on the long term. If you've chosen wisely, then your stock will eventually pay off for you.

Trivia

Test your cable TV knowledge

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

I have been aware of cable TV since the early 1980s and one question sticks out in my mind about it.

Just how many Australians have been bitten by sharks?

If you are a fan of the Discovery Channel like I am, and watch it with any kind of regularity, you see dozens of interviews with Aussies who have found themselves in the jaws of the nasty sea creatures. There is little doubt that the people are telling the truth as they are able to display huge teeth marks on their legs and arms, if they managed to retain the limbs.

My family first signed up for basic cable as a way to finally get good reception at our home, which is located at the bottom of a hill. We had no idea what we would get in the form of programming. I would not say that everything I have seen on cable TV has been interesting, but at least it has offered an alternative to the major television networks.

I am an addict of the Comedy Central cable channel. "Win Ben Stein's Money" is a hoot, a much more entertaining game show than "Jeopardy." I try never to miss "The Daily Show" with Jon Stewart. I enjoy "South Park" and "The Man Show," both of which are programs aimed at the lowest common denominator, which, I suppose, includes me.

On the other hand, I also find myself watching news shows on CNN and MSNBC. "Crossfire" is a good program to catch if you enjoy hearing educated people yell at other. "Hardball with Chris Matthews" is intriguing to those of us who get a kick out of seeing members of the news media take potshots at politicians.

Finally, for those who are sports nuts, cable television is a godsend. I am able to watch some type of athletic event on basic cable practically every night of the year.

Actor breathes new life into Red Skelton characters

By Steve Bryan
Staff writer

Although many performers make a living impersonating Elvis Presley, Tom Mullica chooses instead to imitate another legend.

During his one-man show, "A Tribute to Red Skelton," coming to St. Louis Dec. 10, Mullica, 49, transforms himself into the world-famous comedian who created such memorable characters as Clem Kadiddlehopper and Freddie the Freeloader.

"I asked Red about it a couple of years before he died," Mullica said in a phone interview from Las Vegas. "I told him one day that I was going to do a show in his honor and he said, 'I'd be very flattered.'" and 8 p.m. Dec. 10. Tickets are $20, with a $2 senior citizens discount.

Mullica's "Tribute" will be at the Kirkwood Community Theater for two shows, 2 p.m.

Mullica first met Skelton in 1980 while the comedian was performing at the Fox Theater in Atlanta. Mullica ordered some of Skelton's clown paintings, a purchase that led to the beginning of a 17-year friendship.

"I struck up a conversation with his secretary," Mullica said. "I met Red eventually and we exchanged jokes and Christmas cards and all that type of stuff. I'd see him maybe every two or three years when he came to Atlanta, because was living there at the time."

Although he always had the idea for the show in the back of his mind, Mullica said he didn't work on it seriously until after Skelton's death at age 84 in.

"As soon as he died, I went into it full force because I knew if I didn't do it, someone else would," Mullica said. "I started working on it in January of 1997."

Sixteen months later, Mullica opened his show at the Plaza Theater in the Plaza Hotel in Las Vegas, where he performed for the next four months.

"That's when I decided it was not a hotel-casino show. It's a theater show," Mullica said. "I don't like to do the big rooms. I like to stay at 500 people at the most. If you can't see a person's face with this type of comedy, a lot of it is lost."

Throughout the 80-minute performance, Mullica, wearing makeup that takes an hour to apply, becomes Red Skelton, imitating the comedian's voice, mannerisms and expressions.

The show takes the audience back in time, recounting Skelton's early days as a vaudeville comic through his later success on television, recreating some of Skelton's classic bits along the way.

"He had a lot of material," Mullica said. "I think

Pictured is a self-portrait of "Red the Philosopher," one of several pieces of art that Red Skelton did before his death in 1997.

'Guzzler's Gin' is my favorite routine. And Freddie the Freeloader is the most light character."

"A Tribute to Red Skelton" tends to attract primarily an older audience, Mullica said, because those people remember him the best.

"If I am ever in a city long enough, people bring their kids or grandchildren back" Mullica said. "Eventually, it's going to be on Broadway or off-Broadway. But for now it's just the older folks because they remember him."

Indoor gardens bring warmth, coziness to home

Winter horticulture fun and inexpensive and rewarding

By Michael Heil
Staff writer

It's fun and inexpensive and could give your home a feeling of warmth, turning it into a flowering wonderland by winter or early spring.

"Indoor gardening can be rewarding and it can make the environment you live in cozy, comfortable and bright," said

GARDENING

Kenneth Noll, proprietor of The Garden Kingdom, a quaint flower shop on Illinois Route 157 in Glen Carbon that features gardening accessories and a greenhouse besides an array of fresh flowers.

Noll, whose flower shop is nestled on historic Peters Station, said tulips, narcissus (daffodils), hyacinths, crocus, scillas and grape hyacinths are the indoor bulbs to plant this time of year, but the ideal time to plant them would have been in October.

"A pot of tulips on the window sill in February can make a winter-worn gardener renew the desire to survive the winter," Noll said.

To help novice and experienced gardeners, Noll took

Kenneth Noll, proprietor
The Garden Kingdom

time from his work schedule during an afternoon in November to explain the finer points of gardening. He said for bulbs to bloom, they should be placed into clean, sterile clay or plastic pots with the noses of the bulbs exposed and not buried into the soil. The soil should be a mixture of quality garden loam, peat moss and sand.

"Don't worry about soil fertility or feeding the bulbs because they have enough stored food to flower one time," Noll said.

Moreover, Noll said one must plant the bulbs close together. Usually six tulip bulbs, three hyacinths, six daffodils or 15 crocus will fit into a six-inch pot. The flat side, he said, should be placed next to the rim because the largest leaf will always emerge and grow on that side, producing a more desirable looking pot.

"It's extremely important that the bulbs be handled with great care," Noll said. "Never allow the bulbs to be in temperatures above 65 degrees."

Dance St. Louis' 'Nutcracker at the Fox' debuts this weekend

Dance St. Louis presents "Nutcracker at the Fox" this weekend at the Fox Theatre, 527 N. Grand in Grand Center. Les Grands Ballets Canadiens of Montreal returns for the third time as the dance partner with the Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra and more than 100 children from Montreal and St. Louis.

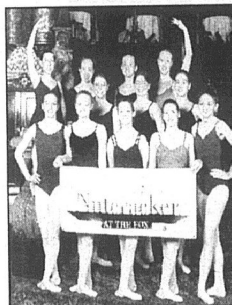

More than a dozen St. Charles County dancers will perform in the show. "Nutcracker at the Fox" will be performed at 7:30 p.m. tonight, at 2 and 7:30 p.m. Saturday and at 1 and 6 p.m. Sunday. Tickets range from $19 to $42 for adults, $16 to $34 for children and seniors, and are available through the Fox Theatre box office and all MetroTix outlets, or call 534-1111.

The show features rich colors and lavish designs, from a Victorian ballroom with a Christmas tree that grows to 42 feet, to the mint-cool Land of Snow and the delectable Court of the Sugar Plum Fairy.

The 55 members of Les Grands Ballets Canadiens are joined by 19 young dancers from Montreal as party guests and 77 young dancers from the St. Louis area as reindeer, mice, rats, angels and Oriental and Russian dancers. Six other St. Louis-area children will have a role as "guest mouse," a different child for each performance.

The 77 children in St. Louis cast this year, who were selected in auditions on Oct. 24, range in age from 7 to 17. They live in Missouri and Illinois and have studied at public, private and parochial school and take dance classes from 30 different schools and studios.

Indoor garden creates winter wonderland inside abode

In addition, he said, when planting, the pot should be closely filled with soil, but the bulbs should not be pressed into the soil. Also, he said, allow for 1/4 inch of space at the top of the pot.

"The bulbs should be watered immediately and should never be allowed to dry," Noll said.

Here are other gardening tips that can give a gardener a green thumb this winter and spring.

- Light - Most plants require bright light, but not direct sunlight. Make sure plants receive the proper lighting because there are a few plants that do not require much lighting.

- Humidity - During the winter, a humidifier or atomizers may be required to maintain healthy plants.

- Temperature - Most houseplants require temperatures above 55 degrees, but not higher than 65 degrees, for best growth. Extreme temperatures will severely harm plants and affect foliage, size, color and formation.

- Containers - Clay or plastic pots used should have drainage holes in the bottom. Glazed pots without drainage holes are attractive, but are usually the least appropriate for plants.

- Soil - Sterilized, amended soil that drains rapidly is necessary for houseplants.

- Placement - Plant roots should not be placed more than an inch below the soil.

- Repotting - When roots completely fill the soil plant, the plant should be replaced.

- Double repotting - Fill air space between the pot and the container with peat moss, sand or shredded sphagnum moss.

- Watering and fertilizing - Plants should be watered thoroughly so that water filters through the soil and collects in a saucer or container under the plant.

Test your cable TV knowledge

Immediately after I wake up in the morning, my hand automatically punches the remote control to bring up "SportsCenter" on ESPN. It is hard to imagine life without ESPN.

For this week's quiz, the topic is basic cable TV. 1. What show that gained popularity on Comedy Central before moving to the Sci-Fi Channel involved a human and some robots making fun of terrible movies? 2. Who was the host of the MTV program "Remote Control," an off-the-wall game show? 3. "Talk Soup" is a popular show on which basic cable channel? 4. On what dating show did Jenny McCarthy and Carmen Elektra once appear, at different times, as regulars? 5. Who was the host of "The Daily Show" on MTV before Jon Stewart took over the job? 6. "Chimp Channel" is a program on which cable channel? 7. In "Beavis and Butt-head," the boys wore T-shirts with the names of what rock groups on them? 8. On what VH1 program can you learn about the tragic lives of such performers as Leif Garrett and Bette Midler? 9. What A&E channel program delves into the lives of famous politicians, criminals, entertainers and athletes from history? 10. Which ESPN sportscaster made a name for himself by inventing ridiculous nicknames for athletes on "SportsCenter"? ANSWERS: 1. "Mystery Science Theater 3000," one of my favorite shows of all time. 2. Ken Ober. Colin Quinn, now on "Saturday Night Live," was his sidekick. 3. E! Entertainment Television. 4. "Singled Out," on MTV. 5. Craig Kilborn, who now has his own show on CBS. 6. TBS. In this show, they have monkey act out scenes from movies. It is bizarre. 7. AC/DC (Beavis) 8. "Behind the Music." 9. "Biography." 10. Chris Berman.

Horoscope

Thursday, Dec. 9, 1999

Chances are you'll find yourself far more active and productive in the year ahead than previously. You may now start to take on many projects you previously only thought about doing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) As long as selfishness does not enter the picture, there is nothing wrong with being assertive today in order to advance your personal interests. It takes imitative to produce results. Sagittarius, treat yourself to a birthday gift.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Remove yourself today from outside influences or distractions in order to do what needs doing. You'll perform more effectively under solitary conditions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your zest for life is contagious today and you'll stimulate even those who are usually lethargic or uninspired. The stir of activity you'll generate will be most welcomed.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) All you have to do today is set your sights on a singular objective that is of primary importance to you. Put all your energy in it and you'll be standing in the winner's circle.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Knowledge to which you'll be exposed today could have a deep impact on you in ways that could help fatten your bank account. What you'll learn you'll be able to put to constructive uses.
